Mitchell Agrees That There Will Be No General Miners' Strike.

SOFT COAL MEN YIELD

They Agree to Advance Wages and Anthracite Operators May Follow Suit.

John Mitchell seemed to-day to be in perfect accord with T. W. Lewis, vice-President of the Mine Workers of America, who issued a statement from his that there would be no general coal strike, as the bituminous operators would grant the increase of the anthracite operators must follow. When seen at the Ashland House today and asked about the statement made in Indianapelis by Mr. Lewis, Mr. Mitchell said:

"That's right. That's true, Further than this I cannot talk about the situation until after I have had a conference with my committee and hear something from the operators, who are going to hold a meeting at the

The operators will restore the reduction in wages accepted by the miners two years ago, and perliage more. F. L. Robbins, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Taylor, of Illinois, leaders of the operators, recognize their untenable position at Industry to the miners. The anthracite operators must now grant an advance in view of the action of the bituminous operators. The details will be worked out later and probably through a special bational convention of the mine workers.

Q. How old are you now? A. I ought to be a hundred after going through all this.
Q. What else did the letter say? A. It said Jones was employed by Rice at $25 per month. Jones also wrote in the letter "that old man Rice was very yieldy and feeble and seened to be a tens time dying."

Q. Now when was this letter written?

Dr. Philip J. O'Hanlon, coroner's physian, who performed the autopey on the body of Gerdron, described the wounds and pointed out their position, using Mr. Ely to illustrate. Dr. O'Hanlon told of several police officers and a man named Morris Goldberg who were present at the autopsy and who spoke of the deceased. Mr. Ely showed Dr. O'Hanlon the bullets taken from Gerdron's body. Berthe Claiche glanued at them indifferently.

Policeman Clarence Martineau, who figures prominently in the case, was called to help Dr. O'Hanlon identify the bullets by means of a mark which he was unable to distinguish with the naked eye. In the mean time Dr. O'Hanlon had secured a magnifying glass and discerned the mark, a letter "I," which he placed on the bullets when he removed them from the body.

"I came here with my thought bent on murder, for I was or my way to Jersey City to kill my wife, he went on, "but now I have changed my purpose. I ask your prayers" that his wife had deserted him, taking with her their child. He had located her in Jersey City, he said, and had started for there from Trenton with the deliberate purpose of killing her. He had made the trip from Trenton by trolley, but had missed connections, and while trying to pass away the time until he could get a car for Jersey City had drifted into the army meeting. Capt. Hughes says that the stranger left for Trenton, saying before he departed that he no longer contemplated any harm to his wife, but would seek to secure the custody of his child by legal means. Capt. Hughes said that he could not violate the confidence of the man by revealing his name.

Mts. Hoffman cabled a legally complete cause of action upon which to ask for the writ. She recited that she and George P. Eustis were married in 1898, and George, their only child, was born in 1800. On May 15, 1901, Mrs. Eustis was awarded a decree of accounted divorce in Rockiand County, with all-mony and the custody of the child. Then followed her marriage to Josef Hoffman. She has been living in Berlin, while her former husband has been at Venice.

lin, while her former husband has been at Venice.

In January, he, as the result of much pleading and a promise that he would return the child to its mother, Eustis prevalled upon Mrs. Hoffman to send George to him for a fortriight's visit.

At the end of the fortuight Eustis refused to return the child and Mrs. Hoffman instituted proceedings in the Venetian Court. On showing the divorce decree granting her custody of the child, the Venetian Court granted an order directing Eustis to surrender the boy, but he fied.

Mrs. Hiffman says he is unfit to have the child, being dissiputed and dissolute and that his uniture upon the morals of her six-year-old son would be had. She also quotes Eustis as defying the Court and declaring he would never give up the child, court orders or no court orders.

"We'll see," commented Justice Dianchard, as he signed an order giving the child into the hands of Joseph Lar-oue, jr. "I shall hold you responsible for the production of the child before me as soon as his mother shall have arrived." said the Court.

"I wish to inform you that your wonderful Cuticura has put a stop to twelve years of misery I passed with fant I noticed on his body a red spot and treated same with differentremedies for about five years, but when the spot began to get larger I put him under the care of doctors. Under their treatment the disease spread to four different parts of his body. The longer the doctors treated him the worse it grew. During the day it would get rough and form like scales. At night it would be cracked, inflamed, and badly swollen, with terrible burning and itch-ing. When I think of his suffering, it nearly breaks my heart. His screams could be heard down stairs. The suffering of my son made me full of misery. I had no ambition to work, to est, nos could I sleep.

"One doctor told me that my son's eczema was incurable and gave it up for a bad jeb. One evening I saw an article in the paper about the wonderful Cuticura and decided to give it a trial.
